

PERMACULTURE: Ecological Themes and BIONUTRIENT FOOD: Biological Growing & Farming Practices
2-day Workshop, Saturday May 21st, and Sunday May 22nd, 9:00 am - 5:30 pm
Plus an Evening Presentation: Saturday, May 21st, 7-9 pm

This Special weekend in our Traverse City Permaculture Design Course is limited to a certain number of students. It is being geared towards ecological themes via the permaculture curriculum, as well as, blending the soil, plant science and how-to of bio-nutrient crop production/mineralization that is focused in the usual 2-day BFA workshop. We are charging a fee for the weekend course, of a sliding scale of $175-$225, which will be dependent on how many folks sign-up and the amount of sponsorships and financial support we can raise. The cost will go down and reimbursements made when registrations go up, and we have reached our minimum budget costs for the May weekend.

PLEASE get your soil tested and bring the report to the May 21st-22nd TC PDC weekend with guest teacher Dan Kittredge. For information on the soil testing, go to this link: <http://bionutrient.org/soil-test>

To reserve your space, please mail this form with full payment, payable to our fiduciary, Little Artshram, for the course:

“Little Artshram - Weekend May 21-22nd w. Dan Kittredge and TC PDC”

Mail to course registrar: Penny Krebiehl, 510 1/2 Second St., Traverse City, MI 49684

Name: _____

Home phone: _____

Address: _____

Work phone: _____

Cell phone: _____

e-mail: _____

2nd e-mail: _____

Amount enclosed: _____

Weekend Meals:

Potluck, bring a dish to share each day, and your tableware. We will provide coffee, tea and drinks.

Please answer these questions in as much detail as you are able, using an extra page:

How did you hear about this course?

Will you need overnight accommodations for Friday or Saturday night?

What do you most want to learn from this weekend course?

What are your skills and talents? Anything else you would like us to know about you: